Water conservation not neccessary

By Rebecca Pavitt Raney

West Valley residents are among the privileged in Southern California; they won't lose the freedom to water their driveways this summer.

New water-conservation laws prohibit people from watering their driveways in Los Angeles, but six local water district managers say similar measures won't be necessary here.

Instead, the managers are encouraging customers to conserve while there's no threat of a shortage.

"Every drop you save will be there tomorrow if we need it," said Robert Thompson, general manager of the Monte Vista Water District.

Grandmom of 6 takes off on bike trip across U.S.

By Rebecca Pavitt Raney

When Maggie Toomey was 10, she ran away from home on her roller skates. Forty-eight years later, the "backpackin' granny" closed her real estate business in Northern California to make a cross-country bicycle trip.

Toomey, who is 59, left
Montclair on a recent weekend to start dodging the "drunks, dogs and Friday night highschoolers" on the 888-mile leg of her ride to Las Vegas, N.M.
"My daughter said, 'Well,

"My daughter said, 'Well, why don't you go on one of those bus tours?' I said, 'I don't want to be with the old people,' "the cyclist said recently.

She considered driving, but "my Volvo blew up again," she said. "Old Ike the Bike (her 10speed) is more reliable."

Like many cross-country peddlers, Toomey is trying to raise social consciousness through the public attention her feat is receiving.

She wants to convince senior citizens "to get up off their duff and do what they want to do, 'cause time is running out."

Toomey said she is making the trip partially because travel is a way to stay active since her husband, Leo, died six years

The trip started last year when Toomey rode from Sacramento to Paso Robles.

She considered riding with an American Lung Association group from Seattle until she saw the itinerary, which required 75-mile-a-day rides through mid-summer heat.

"That's not fun; that's torture," she said.

So Toomey davised her own family-financed trek. She said she goes an average of 40 miles a day with a 23-pound backpack that contains a tent and a stove.

Yet she hasn't planned a route or a time frame in which she'll reach the East Coast. She hopes to reach Las Vegas, N.M., by her 60th birthday in August.

"I spend one-third of the time riding, one-third pushing and one-third laying alongside the road." she said.

She's not concerned about having medical problems or other problems along the way; she told her six children that if they don't hear from her, she's all right.

Toomey's children aren't surprised about their mother's trip; in 1968 she took several of them on a camping trip from Los Angeles to Seattle — via Boston.

Teddy bears ride along in squad cars

By David Madsen

The Upland Police Department has become the latest law enforcement agency in the country to equip its squad cars with teddy bears.

The bears won't fight crime, but instead will be used to comfort children and others, who are the victims of crimes, accidents and other traumatic experiences.

Last week more than 100 of the small furry bears were presented to Upland Police Chief Coy Estes by Sherrie Carlisle, president of the Assistance League of Upland.

"We determined a need in the community for traumatized children and for easing their pain," said Carlisle.

"We will use them when we encounter children who have encountered a traumatic situation," said Emily Bolechowski, community service officer.

"In the last two weeks we have had five examples of child neglect, where children who have never been in a police station before, have come in," Estes said.

The league has promised to keep the department supplied with additional bears in the future, he added.

The program has proven highly successful in other cities and has been endorsed by psychologists, doctors, social workers, police and fire departments, said project chairwoman Ginger Hay.

Upland city clerk completes her last official day

By David Madsen

Twenty years after she was first elected to the job, Upland City Clerk Dee Carpenter has decided to call it a career.

Carpenter, wife of Councilman Frank Carpenter, completed her last offical day on April 22.

Coinciding with her retirement, the city also is abolishing the clerk's job as an elected position.

"We didn't want to take a chance that an unqualifed person might run and be elected," said Councilman Al Canestro.

Instead, the City Council now will appoint the clerk.

Twelve candidates have been interviewed for the position and a final selection is expected to be announced soon, he said.

Canestro praised Carpenter for her "professionalism" over the years.

"She really grew into the job, as the job grew to be more professional," said Canestro.

Born in South Pasadena, Carpenter moved to Upland in 1958.

She was elected to the first of five consecutive terms as clerk in 1968.

Upland only had about 30,000 residents at the time and the work load was much smaller, she said.

"I had one part-time worker at the time. The passage of the Political Reform Act really increased the work load a good deal. We now have two full-time employees," she added.

The city's growth in recent years also contributed to her job becoming more complex, she said.

A development boom in the city during the 1960s and 1970s required her to obtain a solid background in drafting

Upland faces water test fines

By David Madsen

Upland still faces the prospect of paying huge fines for failing to meet a water quality test deadline at the city's abandoned landfill last summer.

A decison on whether the city will have to pay an assessment of more than $200,000 for missing the deadline will be made by June 30, said Jim Bennett, executive officer, Santa Ana Regional Water Control Board.

"That is when the board will submit a report to the Legislature on landfills that have been tested," he said.

The city failed meet a July 1987 deadline to drill a monitoring well capable of testing gound water at the dump site.

The city was then faced with fines of $1,000 each day it failed to complete the tests.

However, no fines have been actually levied against the city.

Drilling on the 500 foot well went slower than anticipated because of the difficult terrain and rocky ground, Matlock said. "We're sympathetic with the

"We're sympathetic with the drilling conditions and large obstacles they have enountered," Bennett said.

"We will forgive them for the delays involved," he added.

However, the city may still be assessed for the fines it owes by the state, Bennett said.

"I don't want to imply they are off the hook," he said.

Ontario alone stores 33 million gallons more than its customers use on a peak day — managers said a shortage would result in restrictions.

Upland is the only city in which officials can recall water rationing in recent years.

Residents were asked to conserve water three years ago after city pumps broke down.

People were cooperative, and the emergency was resolved within two days, said Larry Dilley, the city's water utility director.

As in Upland's case, most West Valley residents would be asked to voluntarily stop watering their lawns and washing their cars during water shortages.

If people refused to cooperate, water companies would impose fines, increase rates for people who use more water than average and mechanically limit how much water a household receives.

Shopping center construction nearly done

By David Madsen

Construction of the 25-acre Upland retail shopping center at the corner of Seventh Street and Mountain Avenue is nearing completion.

"It should be finished by this June," said City Manager Lee Travers

While the selection of type of stores that should occupy the center stirred some controversy in the past, Travers said he is pleased with the final choices.

The center will be anchored by a Home Depot and Vons

Once the center is occupied, the city expects to garner about $650,000 in sales tax revenue annually from the project, Travers said.

The project is just one of several Redevelopment Agency projects looming on the horizon.
Other projects include the Airport project and the Foothill Corridor project.

The airport project area located north of Foothill Boulevard, west of Benson Avenue, and south of Cable Airport.

The project has been on the back burner for the past year, while the city worked to get disgruntled property owners "comfortable working with developers," Travers said.

However, with the Mountain project now nearing completion, the city is ready to devote its attention to this project.

But before any development can begin, 13th Street will have to be extended west to Central Avenue to relieve traffic the project will generate, Travers said

Construction on the street extension is expected to get under way this fall, he said.

The area is designated for light industrial and commercial use, said Travers.

He said the city opposes residential development going into the area because of the additional traffic it would cause.

Possible development could then get under way by next year, he added.

The Foothill Corridor project, still in the planning stages, will cover 70 acres of mostly substandard properties along Foothill Boulevard from Euclid Avenue west to Grove Avenue.

"The biggest purpose of this project is to assist traffic. The old areas along the highway will have to be made more compatible with its use,

ontclair celebrates 32 years

By Kimberly Heinrichs

Montclair wished itself a happy 32nd birthday with the help of its residents last Saturday from 9 a.m. to midnight at the Western Faire.

The Human Services Department kicked off the party with a cook-off at Alma Hoffman Park, adjacent to the city complex at 5111 Benito St. For the second year chili chefs were invited to share their culinary efforts with the general sanctioned by the International Chili Society, said Sue Yoakum, a coodinator with the department.

Chili society judges were to be on hand as well as two 'celebrity" judges handpicked by the city to judge the winner, who will be eligible to enter the Western regionals. Dr. Earl Gabriel, who works with the city's medical clinic, and Margaret Carroll, president of the Montclair Vista Women's Club will help judge, Yoakum said.

Residents got their shot at picking a winner too, in exchange for the investment of 50 cents a 4-ounce cup or three cups for $1, she said. Miss Montclair 1987 Lana Wood entertained with her renditions of country songs. Other entertainers included master of ceremonies Rick Mazurowski, the bluegrass band Otis Roy and Penelope and a kitchen band made up of female Goldennaires, Yoakum said.

An open air market with arts and crafts booths, car giveaways, refreshments and games continued into the afternoon.

The evening birthday celebration moved to the Community Center, behind City Hall, where participants got a roast beef and birthday cake dinner. Donna Thomas and Country Fire entertained, along with square dancers and other Western hoofers until midnight.

Expulsions voted for UHS students

By Natalie Shore

Upland school board members voted last week to expel more than half of the high school students arrested in a recent drug bust.

The action concluded the due process hearings for 22 students charged with selling drugs at Upland High School

Fourteen students were expelled and four were reassigned to alternative programs within the district during the board meeting, said George Renworth, Upland Unified School District superintendent.

Of those four students, two will attend Hillside continuation school, one will receive hometutoring and one will go to a program at Chaffey College called Second Chance," Renworth said.

The home-tutoring service is provided on a limited basis through a county-funded program, Renworth said. "The Chaffey College program allows seniors to finish their work at the community college and get credit for their diploma," he said. At its April 12 meeting the board voted to keep two of the remaining four students in the district, Renworth said.

"One was allowed to remain at Upland High School, and one was sent to Hillside," he said

The last two students were 18year-olds who chose to drop out and did not participate in the district's proceedings, Renworth

Prior to the board's review, each student was given informal hearings at the high school and then considered by a panel of district administrators. Nineteen of the students attended Upland High, and three were enrolled at Hillside.

Board members adhered to the recommendations of the administrative review panel in all cases, said Frank Guzowski, Upland school board president.

"In almost all cases, the high school and the district has worked with the parents to secure other education opportunities for the students," Guzowski said.

R.C. to renew contract with Explusions/from Page 4 county animal department

By Lee Peterson

The animal control department of San Bernardino County, once blasted by Rancho Cucamonga residents and officials alike, will continue to provide its service to that city.

City officials plan to renew their contract with the county, turning away from the idea of creating their own city

Dissatisfaction with the county agency came to a head one year ago with public outcry over poor performance and the discovery that the county was not living up to the contract charging the city for services not

Since that time, while the city assigned administrative staff to study alternatives and the City Council formed a subcommittee. the county agency hired additional personnel.

Rancho Cucamonga City anager Lauren Wasserman said he will recommend that the council continue to rely upon the county to provide animal control services. The recommendation will be part of the proposed budget for 1988-89, he said.

Though the county's animal control department, based in Devore, was heavily criticized for its alleged shoddy performance in responding to emergency calls and cleaning up carcasses, the city is not ready to start its own agency.

The city is well advised,
Wasserman said, to pursue a contract with the county before going into the animal control business for itself.

"If we had to we could get into the business," Wasserman said.

However, Wasserman claimed that the service has improved.

In addition to the $100,000 the county collects annually for dog licensing, Rancho Cucamonga pays $3,000 monthly for additional attention.

Dr. George Pettersen, director of the county department of public health, which oversees animal control, said the division is undeniably wracked with However, Pettersen claimed these problems are on the mend. He said his office is "putting together a proposal" to satisfy Rancho Cucamonga's animal control service needs.

The city has convinced the county to more quickly retrieve carcasses from city streets, Pettersen said.

The county has considered building a shelter in the West Valley to serve its contract cities - Ontario, Fontana and Rancho Cucamonga, Pettersen said.

The students were arrested March 15 and 16 following a fiveweek undercover police investigation at Upland High Posing as a senior, a 19-year-old cadet made 30 narcotics transactions with students. According to police, marijuana was the most prevalent drug sold followed by cocaine and small quantities of suspected LSD and methamphetamine commonly known as speed.

Eight students and their parents attended the final board review, Renworth said. "Some of

through the entire process."

No parent has filed a written complaint with the district to date, Renworth said.

Though both superintendent and board president agree substance abuse at school has not been eliminated, the undercover operation was a significant step in fighting drugs at school, they said.

"I think it's one of the many things we have to do in order to get a handle on this problem."

Students win radio contest

By Natalle Shore

Several weeks ago, little Sara Gross asked her second-grade teacher at Los Amigos School in Rancho Cucamonga if she, with the help of her classmates, could tape some songs for her grandmother in Yakima, Wash.

But no one expected the children's version of the Beatles' "Yellow Submarine" to be aired on KLOS, a popular Southland rock 'n' roll radio station.

And no one dreamed the students would win $1,000.

"I was floored," said teacher Laura Faraason, a KLOS fan, wno called the station during the early morning "Mark and Brian" program April 13. She entered the recording in the disc jockeys' "Tidbits of Talent" contest.

Contenders' winnings usually range from $1.50 to a can of beans, and Faraason figured the children's version of the Beatles classic might be worth $50 after she heard $5 go to

Owners urged to protect dogs from viral disease

By Lee Peterson

In the wake of an outbreak of a viral disease especially lethal to young dogs, dog owners in San Bernardino County are being cautioned to protect their pets.

An increase in cases of Parvo virus has mainly hit the San Bernardino metropolitan area, but West Valley veterinarian hospitals have also reported a sharp rise in Parvo this month.

In addition to puppies, the doberman, pit bull and rottweiler breeds are also highly susceptible to the disease. Fifty percent of the susceptible dogs will die if they contract Parvo. However, all dog owners should seek immunization for their pets from the disease, veterinarians

County Veterinarian Jose Pacal said while sudden changes in the weather may add to stress that makes dogs more susceptible to the disease, the dogs' own immune systems are the biggest contributing factor in the rise of the disease, not the weather.

That's why young dogs, with their underdeveloped immune systems, are most likely to get the virus which mainly affects the dog's digestive tract, causing lethargy in the early stages and in final stages, death, if allowed to go untreated.

The recent increase may be attributable, Pacal said, to the month of April being a busy month for the birth of new puppies.

Pacal said the outbreaks of Parvo had been occuring among individual dog owners and not at pet shops, breederies and kennels.

Dr. Paul Newman of the Baseline Animal Hospital in Rancho Cucamonga said the hospital is seeing a much higher than normal rate of cases of Parvo viral infection.

"We've had 15 to 20 cases in the last three weeks, normally we'd have one or two," Newman

The virus is contained in the stool and is most often spread when rains wash stool particles and the virus from one yard to the next, Newman said.

The virus can live six to 12 months in the environment, making it especially difficult to protect against except through immunization.

Dr. Patrick Ocen of the Tri-Community Animal Hospital in Ontario said the Parvo symptons are at first a general droopiness and moping around, followed by drooling and vomiting. If pets have bloody diarrhea their owners may have already waited too long to seek a medical remedy.

Depending on the severity of the disease, the dog may need to be hospitalized, Ocen said. Such a stay can cost $200 to $400. At the Central Veterinary Hospital in Upland, Dr. Kermit Smith said there has been no increase of Parvo cases at the hospital, but rather a steady incidence.

Pet owners need to be able to notice changes in their dogs behavior, especially in the dog seems depressed.

Young dogs can first be vaccinated at five to six weeks of age. Shots much continue at regular intervals until the dog is an adult.

Montclair council members name Oldfield mayor pro tem

Montclair Councilman Billy Oldfield was chosen by his fellow council members as mayor pro tem at a recent special meeting.

He replaces Councilwoman Dolly Lewman, who filled the position for the past two years. Although it is not required by law, the council chooses to award the honor to council members on a rotating basis. Oldfield began his second term in office in April. He first was appointed to fill a council seat vacated by Larry Rhinehart who was elected mayor in April

He ran for the office in the fall but had no challengers. He had no opposition again this spring when he was up for re-election.

UHS English teacher turns Renaissance into a hobby

By Suzanne Sproul

Becky Winslow is a Renaissance woman with a spirit trapped in the 20th century.

She has no delusions about wanting to transport herself into that colorful period, that is even if she could. But the Upland High School English teacher is more than content studying the dress of the age.

She confesses she spends most of her free time away from class researching, designing and sewing clothes that could have draped any maid, maiden or man more than 400 years ago.

"It's a hobby I've had since 1980. I started with it simply for my own pleasure but now I use it for educational purposes, too," Winslow said, dressed in a modern version of the ensemble a typical peasant woman would have worn.

She was dressed in order to introduce parts of her costume collection to UHS students studying William Shakespeare.

"I picked up a book about the costuming of the period when I was at the Renaissance Pleasure Faire. I sort of expanded it and then I went crazy," she said with a laugh.

Since no patterns exist for the clothes of that time, Winslow relies on paintings, books and other literature of the period to provide the costuming detail she said is very important to her.

One elaborate green dress she showed the students was painstakingly sewn during a six-year period. The jewels that intermittently can be found in the skirt portion of the gown were hand sewn. She's been offered $2,000 for the dress See RENAISSANCE/Page 9

School workers may lose raises

y Natalie Shore

Upland school district mployees may lose all or part of heir expected year-end salary ike, which staff members at all evels have regularly received in

Employees were informed that ne district's year-end reserves or 1987-88 are not enough to rovide the full increase, said uperintendent George lenworth.

Preliminary figures show that he ending balance will be less hat the needed 5 percent of the listrict's total $33 million udget, Renworth said. mployee contracts require a 5 ercent balance before the raise s given, he said.

"Of the district's total $33 nillion ... the ending balance will robably be closer to just more han $1 million," Renworth said.

As early as week before last, Bill May, assistant uperintendent of business services, found that the district would not be able to afford the full annual retroactive money.

"The advice I gave the superintendent is that it does not appear at this time that we are going to have an ending balance sufficient to give that sort ... of salary increase," May said.

A 1.5 percent increase for all district employees would cost the district an estimated $330,000, Renworth said.

The superintendent attributed the unavailable funds to lower enrollment in Upland schools this year. State funds for public Enrollment is about 250 students below what we had anticipated," Renworth said. An expected $750,000 never came in, he said.

Additionally, an unexpected $700,000 went toward staff salaries, Renworth said.

The balance's impact upon the classified workers is unclear at this time, said Kristi Rogone, president of Upland's classified workers union.

'We know there have been some problems, but they (district officials) just don't have a handle on it yet," said Rogone, an accounting clerk in the district's payroll office.

Contrary to statements made by the superintendent, the Upland Teacher Association has not been informed of the budget problems, said Bette Waggoner, assocation president. Waggoner anticipated no problems in securing the customary retroactive pay.

"I expect to be able to negotiate for it," Waggoner said.

Teachers and other employees always have received the additional salary money, but the contract does not guarantee it, she said.

"The right to negotiate the increase is the only thing contigent upon the 5 percent ending balance," Waggoner said.

Waggoner was unable to estimate the dollar figure that represents the average 1.5 percent retroactive increase.

Phelps have a budget they work within, and they award more money if they feel it's proper, said Ann Cerussi, program producer and assistant director of advertising and promotions for KLOS.

"Every once in a while they do delve into seriousness. especially where children are involved," Cerussi said. "Mark has a small son, and they just wanted to help out."

"I thought it was terrific to have that support for the school," said Principal Paul Loesch.

All the books in the classroom library have been read at least once, if not twice by each student, said Faraason,

All hands flew into the air when Faraason asked her 31 students, "Raise your hand if you've read all the books."

The students will share their prize money with the school, said Faraason. "Half of the money will buy books for the school library," Faraason said.

A wish list of books for the classroom library already has been drawn up, and "Peter Rabbit," "The Giving Tree," and "Arthur's Funny Money," are among the titles students will add to their classroom's library shelves.

Cable service upsets residents

By David Madsen

An increasing number of Upland residents are frustrated with the quality of their cable television service.

Over 100 complaints about poor cable service have been lodged with the city during the past six months.

Customers say Comcast Cable of Ontario is providing poor quality and infrequent transmissions to its customers

The company also provides cable service for Ontario, Montclair, Fontana, and portions of Rancho Cucamonga.

"We've had some complaints during the past four to six months over resident's inability to get through to the cable company," said Mike Matlock, Upland assistant city manager.

Matlock said the city has been working with Comcast as the complaints have come in, on a case-by-case basis.

"Our service has deteriorated and three weeks ago we lost our service for 24 hours. This is the worst it been," said Michael Doyle of Upland.

Doyle, who lives just above 20th Street on North Palm Drive, claimed many of his neighbors are experiencing similar problems.

"I watched the first part of 'Lincoln' and wanted to see part two, but the service was out the whole day," he said.

"It's impossible to get good reception with an antenna this close to the mountains and having cable is a must," he added.

A Comcast offical attributed the large number of complaints to recent weather changes and problems related to the company expanding it service to include

"At this time of year, our lines respond to the climate. As the weather has gotten warmer the system has been affected," said Bob Colemen, Concast general manager.

The company is already in the process of "fine tuning" its amplifiers to compensate for the changes, he said.

Colemen added that a large number of new extensions recently installed in Upland homes also increased the number of complaints.

He blamed "outside labor" for many of the problems.

"The contract labor sometimes didn't take the time to explain the service to the customers, he said.

"We're trying to use more in-house labor now," he added.

Some of the poor picture quality experienced by customers was also the result of on-going intallation work, Colemen said..

Colemen, who has been the company's general manager for the past month, vowed he would do everything possible to correct any existing problems.

A hearing on the petition will be held on June 6, 1988 at 8:30 A.M. in Dept.: RC-1, located at: 8303 Haven Avenue, Rancho Cucamonga, California 91730.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court or present it to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 700 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may serve upon the executor or administrator, or upon the attorney for the executor or administrator, and file with the court with proof of service, a written request stating that you desire special notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisement of estate assets or of the petitions or accounts mentioned in sections 1200 and 1200.5 of the California Probate Code.

and 1200.5 of the California
Probate Code.

PRIVATE PARTY RATES

GENERAL INFORMATION

The publisher reserves the right to reclassify, revise, edit or reject any classified advertisement submitted for publication.

ADDED COVERAGE All advertising appearing in Tuesday editions of The Daily Report will also publish in the weekly publications: Montclair Tribune, Rancho Cucamonga Times and Upland News at a rate of 184 per line.

ADJUSTMENTS We make every effort to avoid errors in advertisements. For your protection check your ads upon first publication. The Daily Report will be responsible for only one incorrect insertion of an ad. All claims for adjustments must be made within 10 days. The liability of advertising error shall be limited to the actual cost of space utilized to advertise the item which appears in error. The Daily Report is not responsible for typographical errors or omissions of copy.

DEADLINES - PRIVATE PARTY Tuesday through Friday 12 Noon the day prior to publication. 4:45pm Thursday for Saturday: 4:45pm Friday for Sunday and Monday.

be complete.

Put yourself in the reader's place. If you were considering buying this item what would you want to know about it? Give the item's age, condition, size, brand name and any other information needed to describe it accurately and completely.

avoid abbreviations.

A few standard abbreviations can help you save space but don't overdo it. Too many abbreviations will make your ad look like a secret coded message. Rather than trying to figure out what you're trying to say, confused readers will go on to the next ad.

include price.

Price is one of the biggest concerns of classified readers. Ads that list prices will get their attention first. Including the price will also help you avoid inquiries from readers not in your price range.

be available.

List your telephone number or address so potential buyers will know HOW to contact you. State the best hours to call so they'll know WHEN to contact you. If you're not home when an interested prospect calls, chances are he won't call back.

feel free to ask for help.

Because help is free for the asking. The Daily Report maintains a staff of professional Advisors who write dozens of ads every day. They'll be happy to help you word your ad for the best results.

Place your classified ad TODAY! CALL 987-9200
